WELCOME TO THE U.S. CAPITOL

Your visit to the historic U.S. Capitol begins as you enter the Capitol Visitor Center. With its soaring spaces and skylight views of the Capitol Dome, the Capitol Visitor Center welcomes you on a journey of discovery. The U.S. Capitol is home to the U.S. Congress and its two legislative bodies, the U.S. House of Representatives and the U.S. Senate. Through films, exhibits, and tours, you will learn about how Congress works, how this magnificent building was built, and how citizens can participate in this extraordinary experiment called representative democracy.

The U.S. Capitol stands as a monument to the American people. It is where the issues facing the nation are considered, debated, and written into law. The U.S. Capitol also houses an important collection of American art, and it is an architectural achievement in its own right. History is made at the U.S. Capitol, and the Capitol Visitor Center is your entryway to that history.

On December 18, 2007, Congress passed legislation to name the Capitol Visitor Center’s central space “Emancipation Hall” to recognize the contributions of enslaved laborers who helped build the U.S. Capitol. Emancipation Hall, on the lower level of the Capitol Visitor Center, is a central gathering place for visitors coming to see the Capitol.

GUIDED TOURS OF THE U.S. CAPITOL

Guided tours of the U.S. Capitol begin at the Orientation Theaters on the lower level of the Capitol Visitor Center. “Out of Many, One,” a 13-minute film, illustrates how this country established a new form of government; highlights the vital role that Congress plays in the daily lives of Americans; and introduces you to the building that houses the U.S. Congress.

Tours are free and are offered throughout the day between 8:40 a.m. – 3:20 p.m., Monday – Saturday. Tour passes are required.

Advance Passes: Tours may be booked in advance online at www.visitthecapitol.gov, through the offices of your Senators or Representative, or through the Office of Visitor Services by calling 202.226.8000.

Same-Day Passes: A limited number of passes are available each day at the Information Desks in Emancipation Hall on the lower level of the Capitol Visitor Center.

SPECIALTY TOURS AND PROGRAMS

Learn more about the history of Congress and the Capitol by participating in a specialty tour or activity. Check for updated schedules in the brochure racks or at the Information Desks in Emancipation Hall.
THE CAPITOL GROUNDS
The Capitol is set amidst 58.8 acres of winding paths, memorial trees, inviting benches, and beautiful flowers that are changed seasonally. The grounds today reflect a plan completed in 1892 by renowned landscape architect Frederick Law Olmsted. As you stroll the grounds, note the magnificent bronze and stone fountains and lanterns on the East Plaza, which were restored to their original beauty during construction of the Capitol Visitor Center.

The Capitol Grounds have played host to presidential inaugurations, Independence Day concerts, and the yearly visits of more than three million people. We invite you to enjoy this historic landscape.

WATChing Congress in Session
Passes: The Senate and House Galleries are open to visitors whenever either body is in session; however, the Galleries are not included in the tour of the U.S. Capitol. Passes are required and may be obtained from the offices of your Senators or Representative. Access to the Galleries begins on the upper level of the Capitol Visitor Center. International visitors may inquire at the House and Senate Appointment Desks on the upper level.

House Hours: When the House is not in session, visitors with passes are admitted to the Gallery from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. Last entry into the Gallery may be prior to 4 p.m. based on demand. The Gallery is closed on weekends and holidays unless the House is in session. The House Gallery is subject to unplanned, temporary closures when the House is not in session. For additional information on the House of Representatives please visit www.house.gov.

Senate Hours: The Senate Gallery is open during scheduled recesses of one week or more, and visitors with passes are admitted from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m., Monday through Friday. The Gallery is closed on weekends and holidays unless the Senate is in session and during any recess or adjournment of less than one week. Senate Gallery hours are subject to change. For information please call 202.224.0057.

LIBRARY OF CONGRESS
Visitors have direct access from the Capitol Visitor Center to the historic Thomas Jefferson Building of the Library of Congress, one of the nation’s great treasures, via the Library of Congress Tunnel. The entrance to the tunnel is located on the upper level of the Capitol Visitor Center near the House Appointment Desk.

Statues in the Capitol Visitor Center

The National Statuary Hall Collection in the Capitol is comprised of statues donated by individual states. Each state is represented by two statues chosen by their legislature to honor notable citizens. The 25 statues on display in the Capitol Visitor Center (24 from The National Statuary Hall Collection) represent the diversity of the country and the contributions made by its citizens.

Encouraged trade and opened Hawaii to the rest of the world. Also called Kamehameha the Great. Shown wearing the gilded regalia of Hawaiian royalty including a helmet and a cloak of Hawaii Mamo bird feathers.

The Statue of Freedom
The original plaster model for the bronze Statue of Freedom atop the Capitol Dome has been restored and is now the focal point of Emancipation Hall in the Capitol Visitor Center, giving visitors an up-close view of the allegorical figure. The model is 19½ feet tall and weighs approximately 13,000 pounds.

In 1857, Thomas Crawford, an American sculptor working in Rome, completed the plaster model for the Statue of Freedom. After Crawford’s death, another American sculptor, Clark Mills, was hired to cast the statue at his foundry in the District of Columbia. When the worker who had put the plaster model together refused to disassemble it unless his unreasonable demands for extra pay were met, Philip Reid, an enslaved craftsman owned by Clark Mills, determined how to separate the sections so they could be moved to the foundry for casting.

At the foundry, Reid was put in charge of keeping the fire going under the molds, and he worked with other enslaved laborers as the sections of the plaster model were cast into bronze. Philip Reid was emancipated shortly before the completed bronze statue was moved to the Capitol Grounds in 1862, and he was a free man when the last piece was put in place on the Dome on December 2, 1863.

The plaster model for the Statue of Freedom stands prominently at the west side of Emancipation Hall in front of the entrance to Exhibition Hall.
Julius Sterling Morton (1832–1902) Nebraska, Bronze by Rudulph Evans, 1937. Farmer, legislator, and cabinet member. Founder of Arbor Day, celebrated on his birthday, April 22. Staked a claim in Nebraska before it was a territory. Member of territorial legislature and appointed secretary of the territory. Served as President Cleveland’s Secretary of Agriculture. Began to edit the multivolume Illustrated History of Nebraska. Seen at the base of the sculpture are a tree trunk, sapling, pruning shears, and shovel symbolizing Arbor Day.

James P. Clarke (1854–1916) Arkansas, Marble by Pompeo Coppini, 1921. Lawyer, state legislator and attorney general, governor, and U.S. Senator 1903–1916. Twice elected President pro tempore of the Senate. Supported the Panama Canal project and Philippine independence. As Chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, helped pass employers’ liability and workmen’s compensation legislation.

Respecting Capitol Art
During your visit, help preserve the Capitol’s statues and other works of art. Enjoy looking at them, but please do not touch them — each touch does some damage.

Honoring Human Rights Leaders
Frederick Douglass (1818–1895) was born into slavery in Talbot County, Maryland. He became one of the country’s most influential advocates for civil and human rights. After escaping slavery in 1838, he moved to New Bedford, Massachusetts, and became involved in the abolition movement. He wrote three autobiographies, and in Rochester, New York, where he lived for 25 years, he published the country’s leading African American newspaper. During the Civil War Douglass recruited soldiers for the new African American regiments. He moved to Washington, D.C., in 1872, where he was several times appointed to public office, and died there in 1895. Douglass worked tirelessly throughout his life for voting rights for African Americans and women, equal rights for freedmen, and anti-lynching laws. By an act of Congress, a statue of Frederick Douglass created by Steven Weitzman and donated by the District of Columbia was placed in Emancipation Hall on June 19, 2013.

Sojourner Truth was born Isabella Baumfree in 1797, and Sojourner Truth was first sold at auction at about age nine. By the age of 30, Isabella had been enslaved by five owners, but in 1826 she courageously walked away to be free. Inspired by her religious beliefs, Isabella changed her name to Sojourner Truth and began preaching about abolition and women’s rights. Sojourner Truth’s bust by Artis Lane is the first sculpture to honor an African American woman in the U.S. Capitol. It was unveiled in Emancipation Hall in April 2009.

Raoul Wallenberg was a Swedish diplomat who, through his country’s legation in Budapest during World War II, helped save the lives of tens of thousands of Jews threatened by the occupying Nazi forces and their Hungarian collaborators. The bust of Wallenberg by Miri Margolin was accepted by Congress in 1995.
