

Design competition submission, not chosen: An Elevation for a Capitol, by James Diamond, 1792

Courtesy of the Maryland Historical Society, Baltimore, Maryland

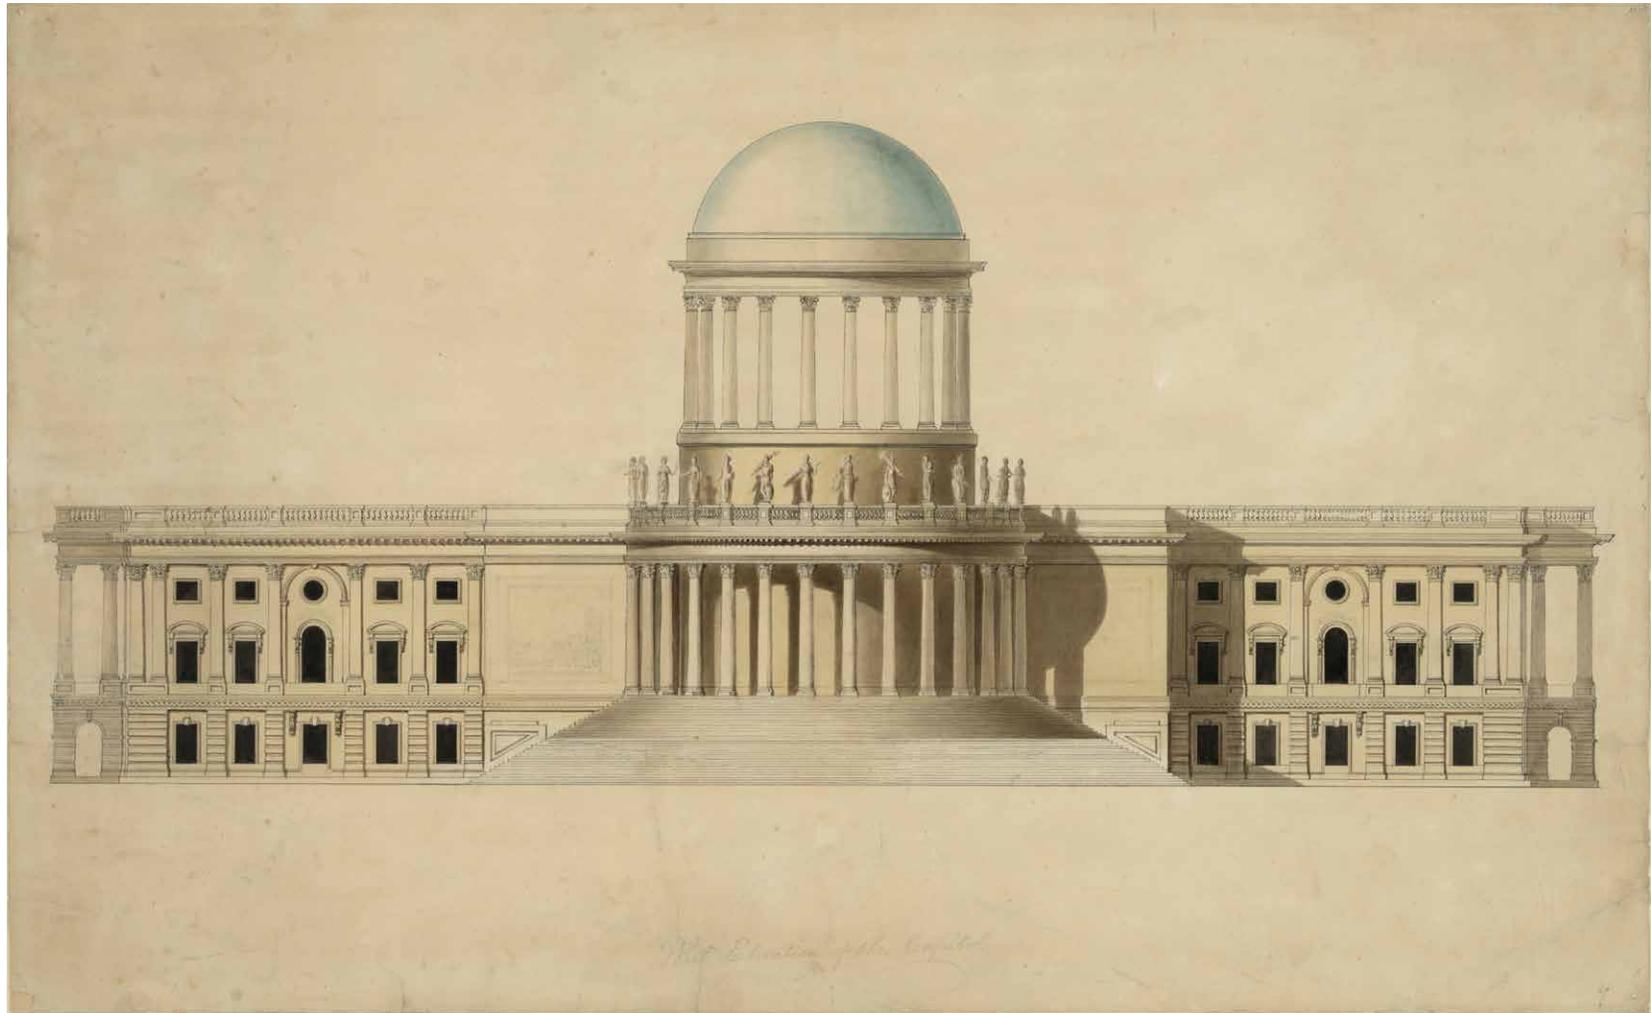

Design competition submission, not chosen: Respective View of the Federal House, by Andrew Mayfield Carshore, 1792

Courtesy of the Maryland Historical Society

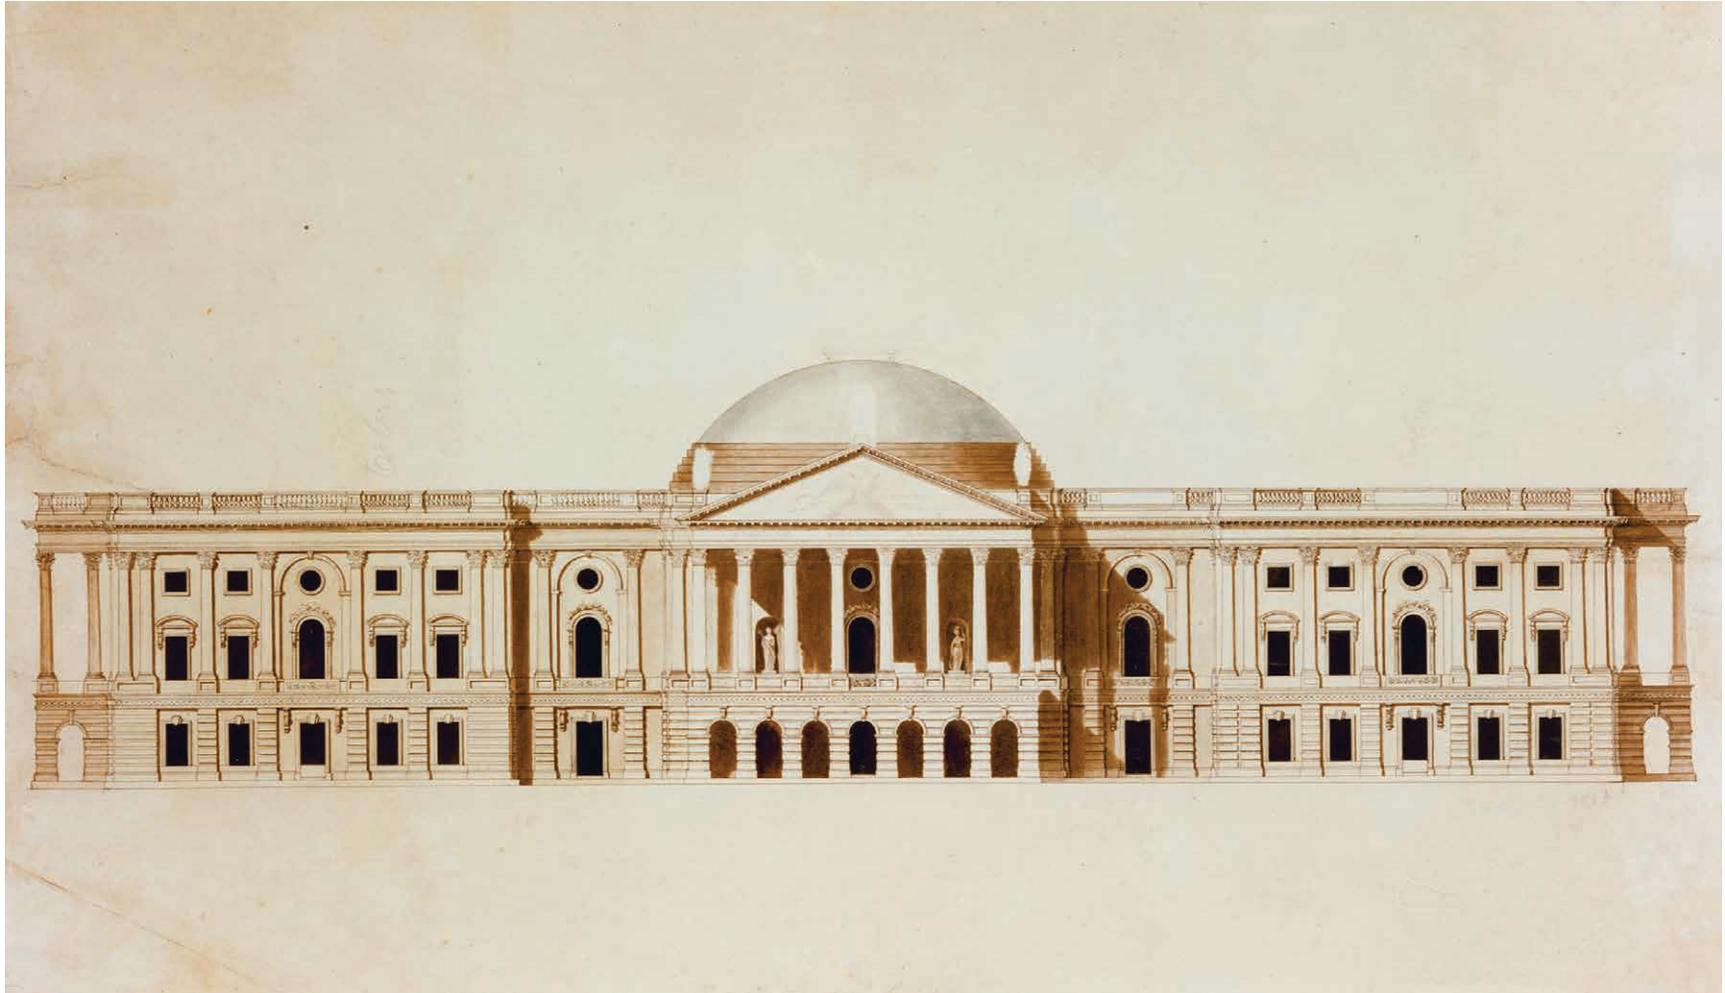

Design competition submission, not chosen: No. 2 of Aml. Dobie inv& del For a Capitol to be built in the City of Washington, by Samuel Dobie, ink and ink washes on paper, 1792

Courtesy of the Maryland Historical Society

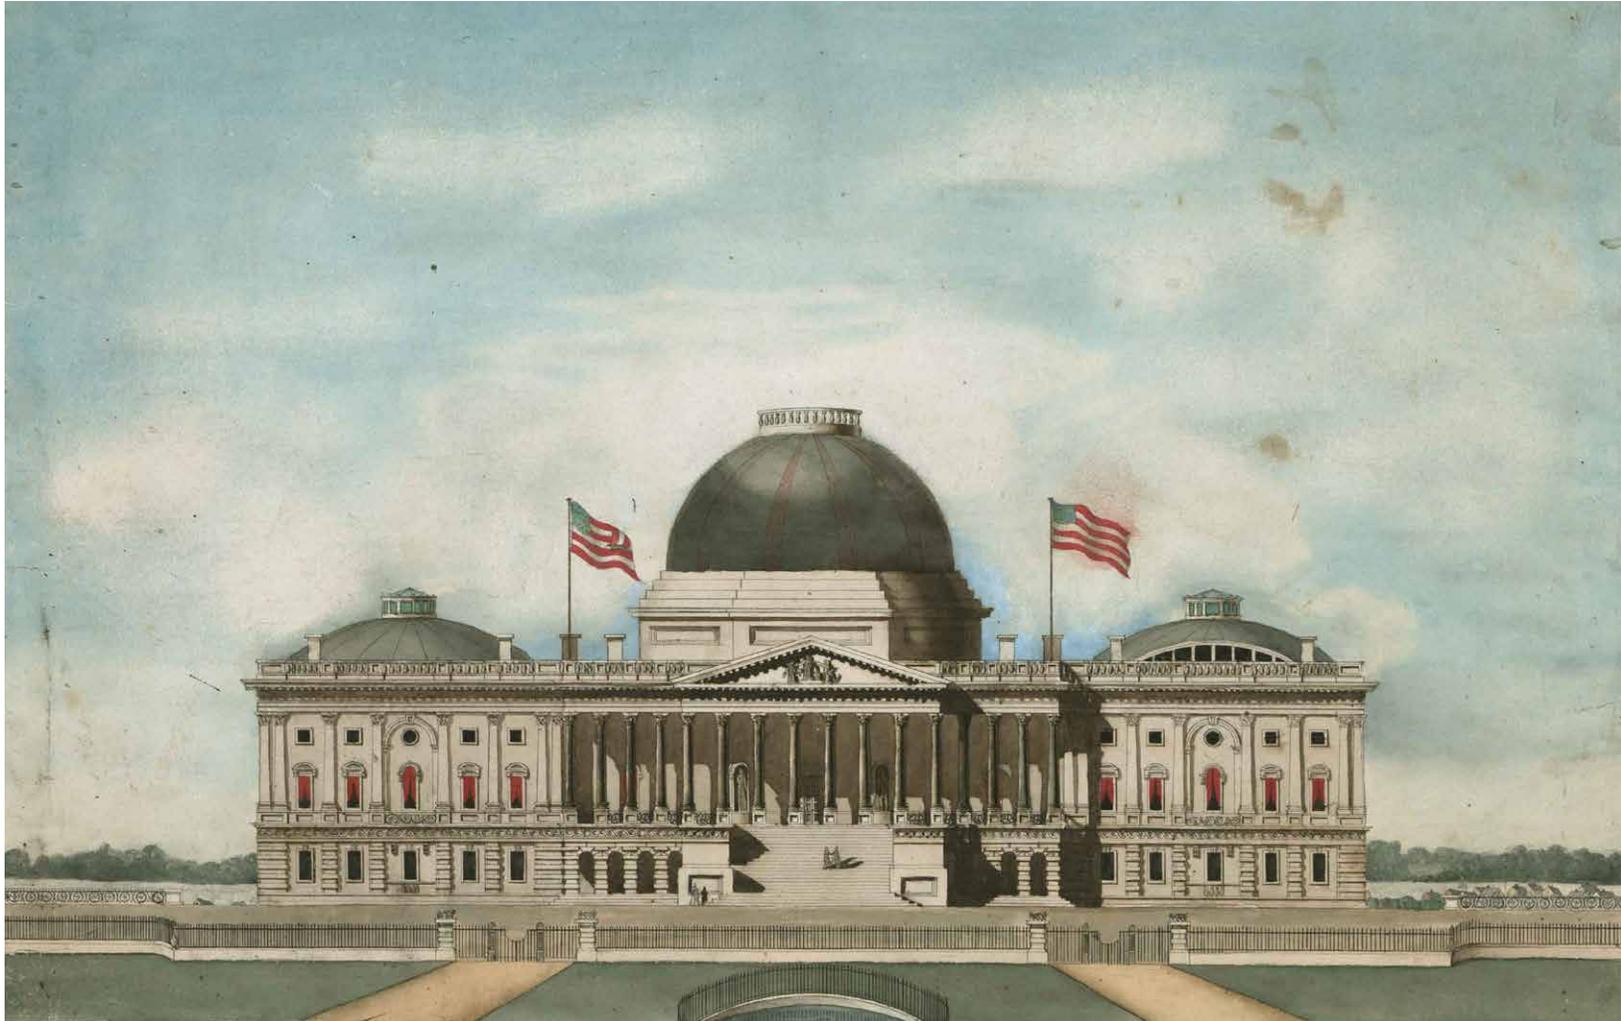

Proposed design for the U.S. Capitol, west elevation, by Dr. William Thornton, ca 1793–1800

Prints & Photographs Division, Library of Congress

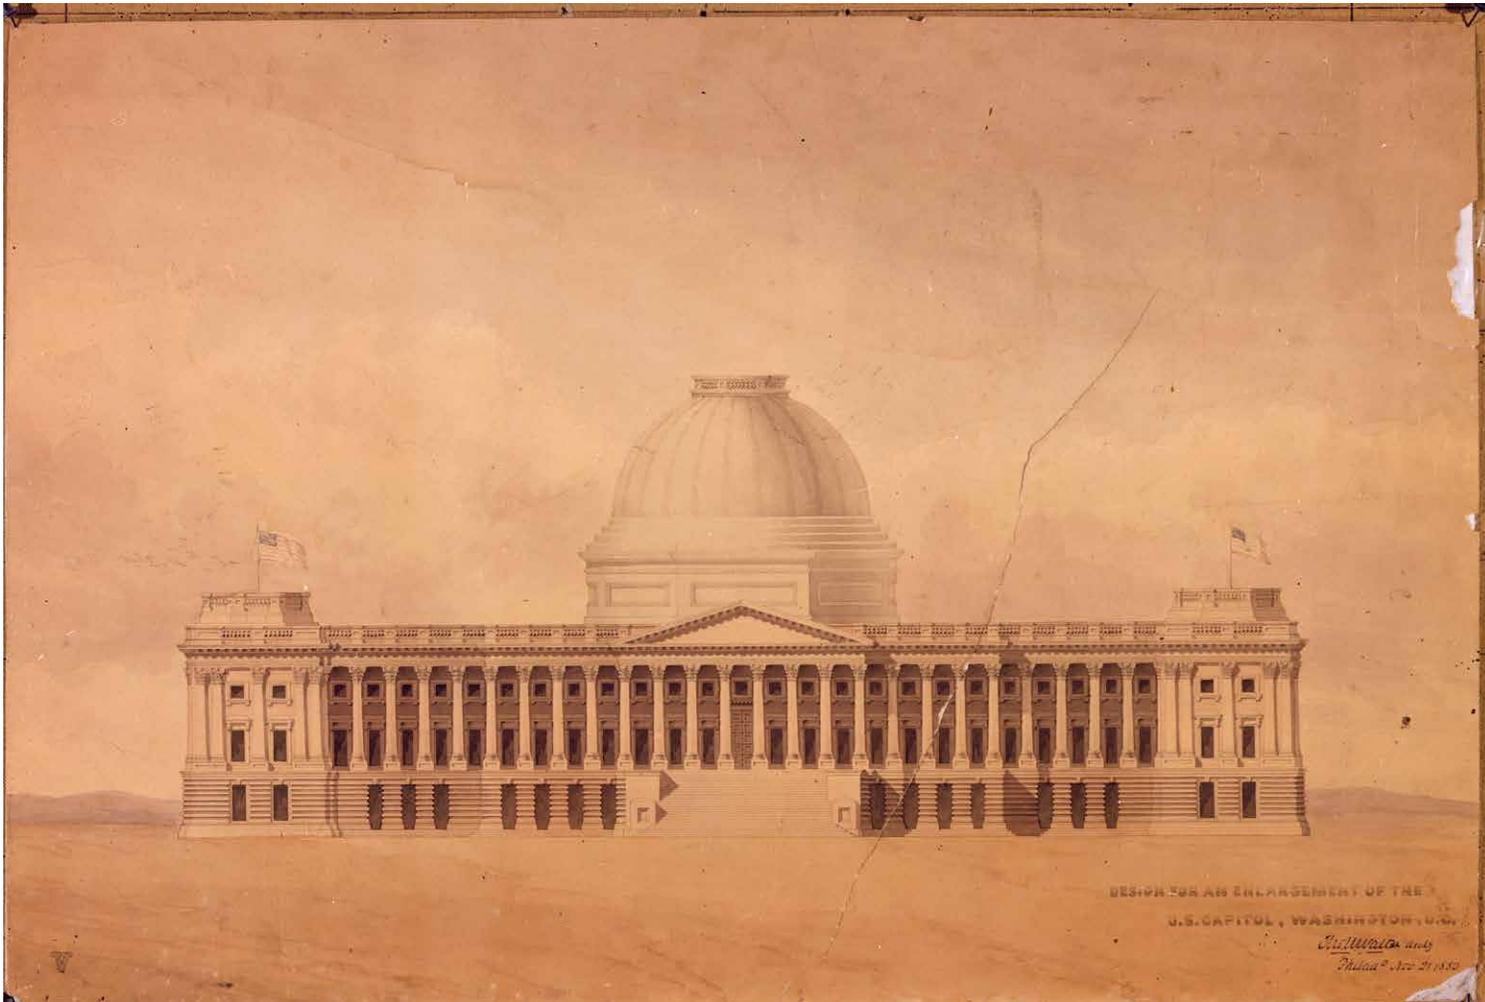

Approved Design for the United States Capitol, by Dr. William Thornton, 1793

Prints and Photographs Division, Library of Congress

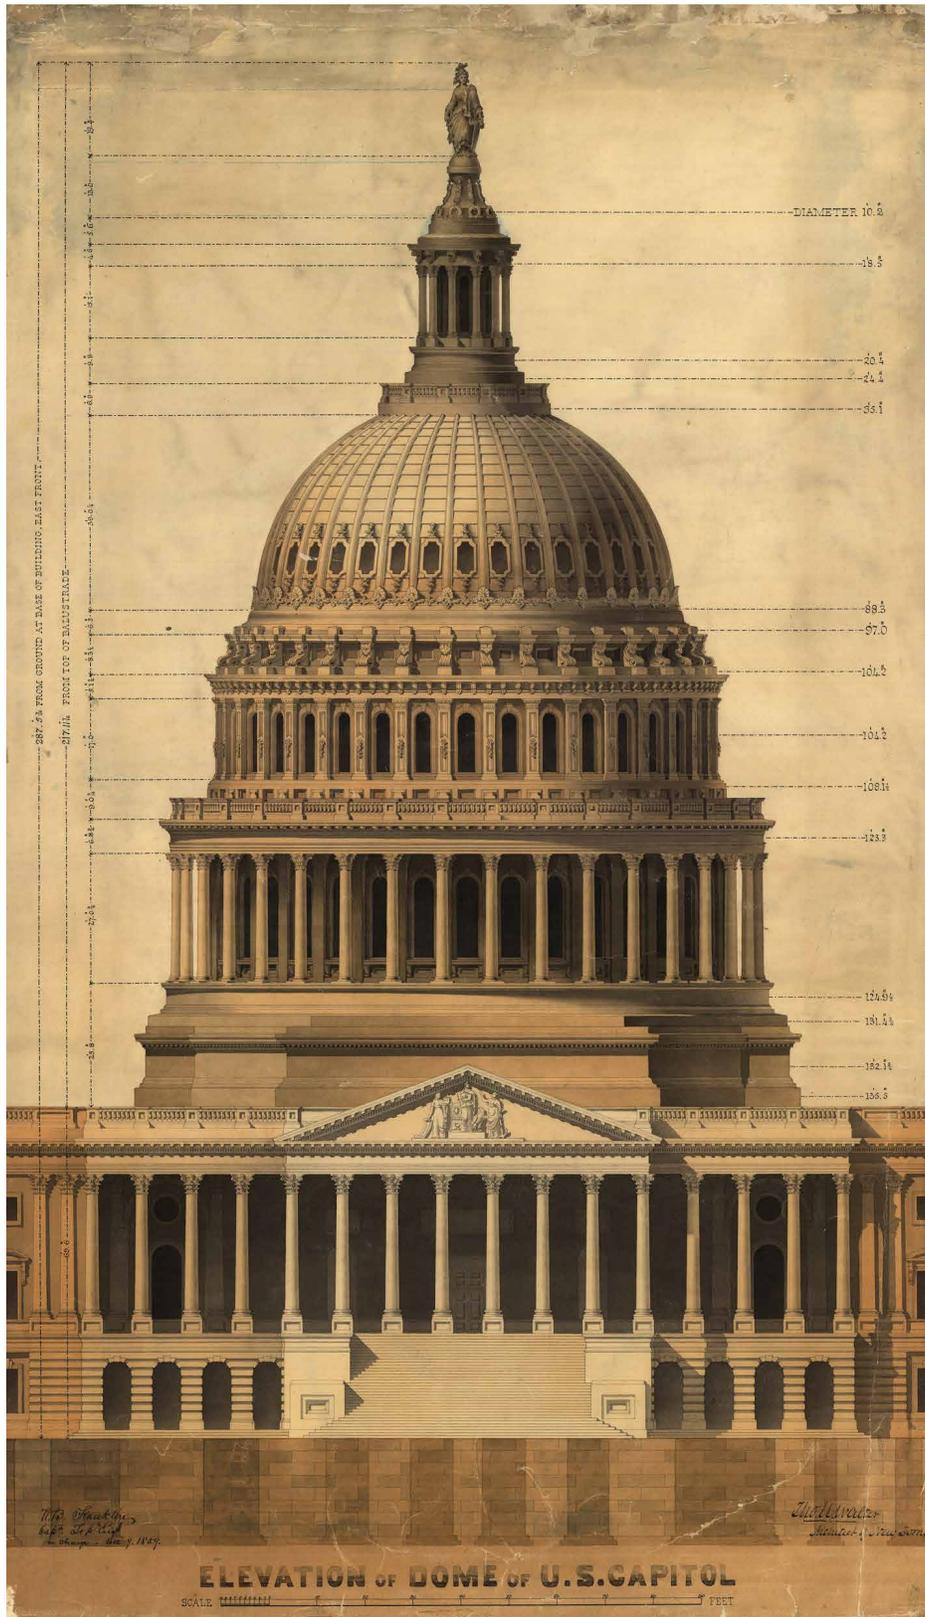

East front of the Capitol, by Alexander Jackson Davis, cs. 1832–34

Prints and Photographs Division, Library of Congress

Proposed Design for the Capitol Extension, by Thomas U. Walter, 1850

Architect of the Capitol

Revised Design for Dome of U.S. Capitol, by Thomas U. Walter, 1859

Architect of the Capitol

Contemporary image

Architect of the Capitol